CURRICULUM

Take classes in:
- Evidence-Based Practice
- Research
- Leadership
- Program Development
- Theory
- Occupational Science
- Teaching

36 credits with a Master’s degree
60 credits with a Bachelor’s degree

Complete capstone project:
The capstone is an individually mentored project in an area of interest that will contribute to the knowledge base for the profession. This may be, but is not limited to, a research project, program development and evaluation, curricular development, or a leadership project. The project must be related to an interest area of the faculty in the Division of Occupational Therapy:

- optimal aging
- program development, policy, and advocacy
- occupational justice
- contemporary trends in practice with children and youth
- excellence in teaching
- optimizing activity and social participation with neural or visual disability